Dear Hogg Foundation,

It is with great pride and enthusiasm for the work being planned and executed in Bastrop County that I submit this letter of support and approval for the grant application to the Hogg Foundation for Mental Health Collaborative Approaches to Well-Being in Rural Communities project.

Bastrop County is a diverse, rapidly growing community full of wonderful folks from all walks of life that come together to live in a rural community in the Lost Pines region of Texas. But like many fast-growing counties in Texas, we have struggled to keep pace with the increasing needs in our community.

Our residents are mostly of modest means, and the impact of seven state and federally-declared disasters in the last seven years has tested our community's resilience. I have been encouraged beyond description to see our residents fight to overcome the destruction that we have experienced since 2011. I know that much work must still be done to heal our communities and continue to create the best environment for every resident of Bastrop County.

The collaborations that I have been honored to be a part of while working with dozens of capable and forward-thinking organizations leave no doubt in my mind that the goals we are working towards together are in the right hands and attainable. Along with the challenges that being the 11th-fastest growing county in Texas present have also come an infusion of energy, expertise and ideas from long-time Bastrop County residents and newer members of our community.

There is energy here; and a will and the knowledge to turn that energy into action. Each one of the dozens of organizations that will collaborate on the project being submitted brings that energy and expertise to the table. Each has a desire to transform the environments where people live, learn, work, play and pray to support resilience, mental health, and well-being.

Our collective goals are in good hands. The leaders who have come together to achieve those goals have the full support of myself and our team at Bastrop County.

Sincerely,

RE: African American Faith Based Mental Health Education & Awareness RFP

To Whom It May Concern:

Imagine a neighborhood without access to a bank, quality grocery stores, or comprehensive transportation. Now imagine that this same neighborhood has some of the highest poverty rates in your city. Finally imagine driving through the area and seeing abandoned homes, boarded businesses, and liquor stores and motels on every corner. Would this be the ideal community you would like to live in or just pass through? Would you like to raise your family in this type of environment? Most likely you would not want to live in such an atmosphere, but for 63,185 residents of the [REDACTED] communities, this is our reality.

[REDACTED] is pleased to present this proposal for your review. Our Mind Body Soul Program is committed to ensuring that every [REDACTED] resident has access to a high quality, faith-based mental health awareness program. Residents will have access to services that are person-centered, formed by the spiritual determinants of mental health and focused on preventing and keeping individuals healthy. We will address the 'whole' person and not just the disease. We will help to eliminate the mental health disparities in [REDACTED] communities.

To achieve our vision, [REDACTED] will harness the collective power and potential of area churches, mental health agencies, and other community organizations to create broad transformation focused improvement of individual and community mental health, prevention and appropriate treatment. Our program will promote individual and community mental health wellness, prevention, detection, and intervention; work to reduce mental health disparities in [REDACTED]; assure access broadly; be grounded in data, evidence and quality improvement; enable transparency; optimize use of public and private funds; and yield overall population-based improvements in mental health overall.

The estimated expenses for our [REDACTED] Mental Health Collaborative are estimated at $72,000, which we request from the Hogg Foundation. This request in program funding would be used to obtain the personnel and program materials necessary to ensure the success of the initiative. We appreciate the Hogg Foundation taking an interest in helping our community residents develop the skills necessary to become stronger and more responsible citizens of [REDACTED]. Please contact Mr. [REDACTED] or [REDACTED] if you require any further information or have any questions concerning this proposal.

Yours in service, [REDACTED]
